

REPORT FOR MINISTERS ORDAINED BY THE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

Introduction: Ecclesiastical ordination by a recognized religious body has legal implications with the Federal Government as related to the Internal Revenue Service. Therefore, the Methodist Protestant Church requires that each of its ordained ministers having ordination credentials from the Methodist Protestant Church present a brief written statement annually relative to their ministerial activities. If the president of the Annual Conference does not hear from an individual for two years, that person will automatically be dropped from the roles of the Conference. The following questions should be answered and submitted to the Ministerial Education and Relations Committee of the Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church of which they are members each calendar year.
